POLITICAL NOTES.

It is practically settled by the Independent Republicans of Albany that If Governor Morton signs the Barnes Police bill, rival delegates will be sent to the Republican National Convention, in fact, is more than likely that such delegates will be sent anyway, Mr. Montignani and all the other eading spirits of the anti-machine movement at leading spirits of the anti-machine movement at the capital having become convinced that any effort to fight within the organization lines is worse than folly. They polled one-fifth of the entire vote in the last municipal election, and although they falled to re-elect Mr. Wilson, the reform Mayor, they did succeed in defeating Barnes's man, Walker. Mayor Thacher is a Democrat, but he is fighting the Barnes bill as vigorously as the reputable elements of the Republican party.

tion of Edward Lauterbach for Frank Hiscock as a delegate-at-large to St. Louis. His argument against it is strong. Some of Mr. Lauterbach's friends, in urging the change, declare that the gentleman from Syracuse was disloyal to Mr. Morton at Minneapolis in 1892. This is not true. Mr. His-cock did all in his power to bring about the Govnot do it, simply because the overwhelming ma-Morton again, even though the pleadings of Hiscock were supplemented by those of Mr. in Hiscouk were supplemented by those of Mr. iichener, of Indiana, who was supposed to repreent ex-President Harrison in the convention. Assual, Mr. Platt attempted to play both sides, and ally sneaked out of the convention, and was off iduiging in a carriage ride when the question was stiled as to who New-York's choice for Viceresident would be. No ballot was taken, for the mple reason that Mr. Hiscock, as well as Mr.
epew, saw that it was utterly useless to do so,
they being about the only two delegates present
the attempted to say anything in Mr. Morton's beaif. It is interesting to note that in a preliminary now poses as the unfailing friend of the Governor, openly remarked that he could see no reason for nesting upon Morton's renomination, since he had been practically useless to the State machine while in Washington These are the cold, hard lacts of political history, and Mr. Morton will be ungrateful to Mr. Hiscock if he allows Edward Lauterbach to be substituted for the Onondaga eader. Whatever may be said by way of criticism of Mr. Hiscock for his subserviency while in office to Platt, it will be conceded that Mr. Fassett voices he general sentiment when he characterizes it as noredible "that Governor Morton would consent to the humiliation and degradation of such a man as Edward Lauterbach."

Platt's attempt to check the McKinley sentiment Lockport by threatening persecution of those manufacturing friends of the Ohlo statesman wh use canal water is a characteristic device of th Platt machine. "The incident," says "The Buffal Express," "would serve to warn business men of the tyranny which is being built up over them."

Some of Platt's followers complain bitterly because of the early State Convention. It has proven disastrous to many of them, owing to the way in which the McKinley sentiment is sweeping over fortunes compel them to elect Morton delegates, and this has been done in a majority of instances against the dominant feeling in their own localities. Bitterness and strife are thus engendered, and a stimulus is given to the anti-machine movement that it could not possibly have otherwise obtained. Had the State Convention been held at the usual time, say in April or May, all this would have been avoided. Mr. Morton would have lost nothing by delay, and might have gained immeasurably. At all events, his followers would not be put in the ridiculous position which they occupy to-day, of trying to stem the tide that has set in in favor of the Ohio statesman. and this has been done in a majority of instances

Chairman Hackett has tried to make it appear hat the State Convention next Tuesday is not called at an unusually early day. This is about as The facts of history disprove it entirely. The first Republican National Convention was held in 1856. That year the New-York State Convention was held on May 28. Four years later it was held on April 18. In 1864 it was held on May 25. In 1868 General Grant was chosen as the Republican nominee for President. An early National Convention was held, and the tremendous enthusiasm over his name led early in the year on February 5. This, however, it test after the Rebellion. The war spirit was still be compared with anything subsequent to P. In 1872, when Grant was renominated there was much excitement also, but the State Convention was not held until May 18. In 1876 Conkling and Blaine measured swords for the first time in the National Convention at Cincinnati. Conkling, true to his aggressive spirit, forced the fighting in New-York and succeeded in having an early State Convention. It was held on March 22. But it proved fruitless to his fortunes. Blaine, to be sure, was not nominated, but Hayes was, and Hayes's nomination was the beginning of the end of Conkling's reign in this State. Four years later, when he made the effort of his political life, to renominate Grant, he called an early State Convention. It was held on February 25. It roused a bitter feeding, and finally led to a bolt of the unit rule by Judge Robertson and others, the result of which is familiar to everybody. Conkling was beaten in the National Convention, and his power as a leader in this State was broken forever. That was the last early convention that has been held in this State in any Presidential year since 1880. In 1881 the delegates-at-large were chosen on April 30. It will be seen from this recapitulation that no convention has ever been held in this State before April or May, except for "snap purposes," and in the case of General Grant's nomination in 1865.

An amusing instance of the wild lengths to which be compared with anything subsequent to R. In 1872, when Grant was renominated, there was much

An amusing instance of the wild lengths to which An amusing instance of the wild lengths to which the machine will go was furnished by the pantaloon of the Platt circus—young Barnes, of Albany. He published in his "Journal" of March 10 an official call for the caucus of the Republican members of Assembly. This was signed by Mr. Nixon, the chair-Assembly. This was signed by Mr. Nixon, the chairman. Immediately underneath was another notice signed by Barnes, as Editor of "The Journal," as follows: "It is earnestly requested that all Republican members be in attendance at this caucus, in order to maintain their standing in the party." That is to say, any Republican who had the temerity to refuse to go into the caucus on the Raines bill and the Greater New-York scheme would be read out of the party immediately by Mr. Barnes. This is only a fair sample of his antics, and yet he is a nember of the State Committee, the Hepublican boss of Albany County, aspires to be a delegate-at-large in place of Chauncey M. Depew, and is unquestionably one of Mr. Platt's most confidential advisers and trusted lieutenants.

It is pointed out by "The Syracuse Courier" that It is pointed out by "The Syracuse Courier" that the Republican State Convention next Tuesday is a sheer waste of time and money. It is known precisely now who the four delegates-at-large will be, and what will be done, from start to finish, by the machine; coneequently, "The Courier" points out that it is in the interest of economy to delegate Mr. Platt to perform the work directly, instead of doing it indirectly through his dummies in convention assembled. As near as can be estimated, there would be a saving of about $25,000 in the way of railroad and hotel expenses to the faithful—no small item in these dark days of Democratic rule.

It makes some of the old major-generals of the party rub their eyes with astonishment when they read that Frank Hiscock, who was elected to the read that Frank Hiscock, who was elected to the United States Senate by the unanimous vote of the State Legislature, is to be supplanted as delegate-at-large by Edward Lauterbach, who, according to his own contession, could not raise $1,000 for the Republican County Committee last fall, and who actually could not be elected to the County Committee, of which he is chairman, from his own election district, but had to go into another Assembly district, and even there he won his seat only by fraud.

Well-informed members of the Legislature say that every bill that has been passed by the Platt gang will be signed by the Governor, including the confamous Albany police measure. Their reports seem to harmonize with this summary of the situation by to harmonize with this summary of the situation by "The Troy Press." "It is well understood," says "The Press," "that we have essentially a Platt Governor, and white one or two sounding vetoes may be made to inflate his fake boom, the ring measures will meet with no such response as if a reformer like Tilden or Cleveland were in the chair. A patron and beneficiary of the Platt machine himself. Governor Morton has apparently neither the courage nor disposition to do anything toward smashing it. Indeed, he is one of its main fulcrums of support. If he were the intrepid opponent instead of a compliant assistant of Platt, the latter's power would be badly wrecked before springlime."

Again the declaration is made that "Fassett has turned to the Platt fold," and again this report must be denied. The denial rests upon the declara-tions of Mr. Fassett himself. He is in favor of Mr. Morton, and has been in favor of Mr. Morton since January 1, 1895. To that extent, and to that extent only, is he, according to his own declarations, in sympathy with the Platt machine.

The possible collapse of the Morton boom cau some of the up-State Republicans to urge Dr. Depew's substitution in the favorite-son role. It is pointed out that in 1888 he had no difficulty whatever in securing the State's entire support, and it was not necessary either to indulge in fraudulent enrolments and snap State conventions in his behalf. The Doctor, however, answers these complimentary suggestions with his blandest smile and the assurance of another manifesto in favor of Governor Morton. But there can be no doubt that down in his heart he regrets his European trip of 1894. Had he stayed at home that year he would have been nominated for Governor, he would have been right in the front seat of the coming Republican National Convention.

AMONG VARIETY THEATRES.

The beautiful dances of Miss Loie Fuller are to be seen at Koster & Bial's for only one week more. The audience of Saturday night was one of the largest ever in the house, if not quite the largest. MR. STODDARD'S FOURTH LECTURE.

The Monday morning audiences at Daly's Theatre this season are getting plenty of snow. Mr. Stod-dard's admirers had quantities of it under them and gathered to hear the fourth lecture of his course He soon had them out of the snow and away from He soon had them out of the snow and away from it and in a sunnier clime, for the subject of the day was "The Gories of India." The lecture is not new, though it has undergone some modifications since it was last heard here. It takes its range, as it used to do, from the cities to the mountains and from the hovels to the temples, keeping the mind filled with visions and the eye with actual pictures. It was listened to with the usual enjoyment. This lecture will be repeated, of course, each day of this week, the hour being 11 a. m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, and 3 p. m. to-day and on Friday. The lecture of next week, the last one of the course, will be on "A Tour of Japan."

THE MUMMY OF A CLIFF DWELLER. Prescott (Ariz.) correspondence of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Prescott (Ariz.) correspondence of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The mummy of one of the ancient cliff-dweliers of Arizona, the first of undoubted authenticity ever discovered, has been found by a hunter well known in Northern Arizona, John McCarty. In a cliff dwelling on the Verde River, a dozen miles north of the mouth of the East Verde, he noticed that when one of the walls was hit with meta; a hollow sound emanated. This led to the discovery of a sort of crypt. In this crypt the mummy was discovered. It had evidently been propped up in a sitting position against the wall, though there were indications that the cliff-dweller of long ago had been walled up alive, and there left to die of starvation or suffocation. By the side of the mummy were found several broken pottery bowis and a stone axe, and in the vault were picked up a dozen obsidian and film tarrowheads, several of them exceptionally large-sized and of rare workmanship.

The mummy, which weighs 21 pounds, was taken away by the finder on an Indian litter dragged behind a burro, till a wagon road was reached. It is now in this city. The body is that of a male, and is of unusually great stature. The skin, which is broken in several places, revealing the bones, is of the color of dried beef. The trunk is perfect, the skin covering it being unbroken. In the skull, however, lies the element of greatest interest. The formation is entirely different from that typical of the ancient dwellers were Toltecs of almost Caucasian cranial features. The skull of the mummy, with forehead retreating from the nose and large reartive and well preserved, and protrude as in the canine tribe. As the mummy showed signs of disintegration, McCarty has given it a coat of varnish, preparatory to placing in an airtight glass covered box.
